The weather was threatening in the morning and there were many misgivings among the throngs from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington here to see and to be seen. Those who sallied forth from the hotels before noon were garbed in heavy coats and furs, and the only showing of color was in the millinery. The carly promenaders from the hotels of the Chelsea and the Inlet districts were stylishly clad, but they were not of the type which makes the Boardwalk pageant.

When the sun made a belated appearance after 11 o'clock there was a change the general aspect of the Boardwalk throng, and thousands who had deferred their stroll because of the lowering skies and the chill winds hastened to join the promenaders.

One by one stunning costumes appeared, and one by one heavy coats, furs, all the hotel corridors were deserted.

The results of Sunday's shirtsleeve evangel'sm exceed what Provost Smith had hoped for. Much fervor has been shown by the students at meetings and Bible classes are being organized in all departments of the institution.
